THE VANISHING AMERICAN ...

Long years ago the Southwest was inhabited by many tribes of Indians. Among these flitted a nomadic people—the Apaches, a wandering race of warriors. The Apaches were a fierce and proud people, proud of their traditions and their fighting men. They prayed to ancient gods before setting out on periodic raids against their mortal enemies, the Comanches. On the coming of the white men, the Apaches struggled to maintain their ways of life. They often fought against overwhelming odds. In the end, as anyone who watches television knows, the Apaches lost. They were forced to submit to another people's traditions. They lost their individuality, thus losing their pride.

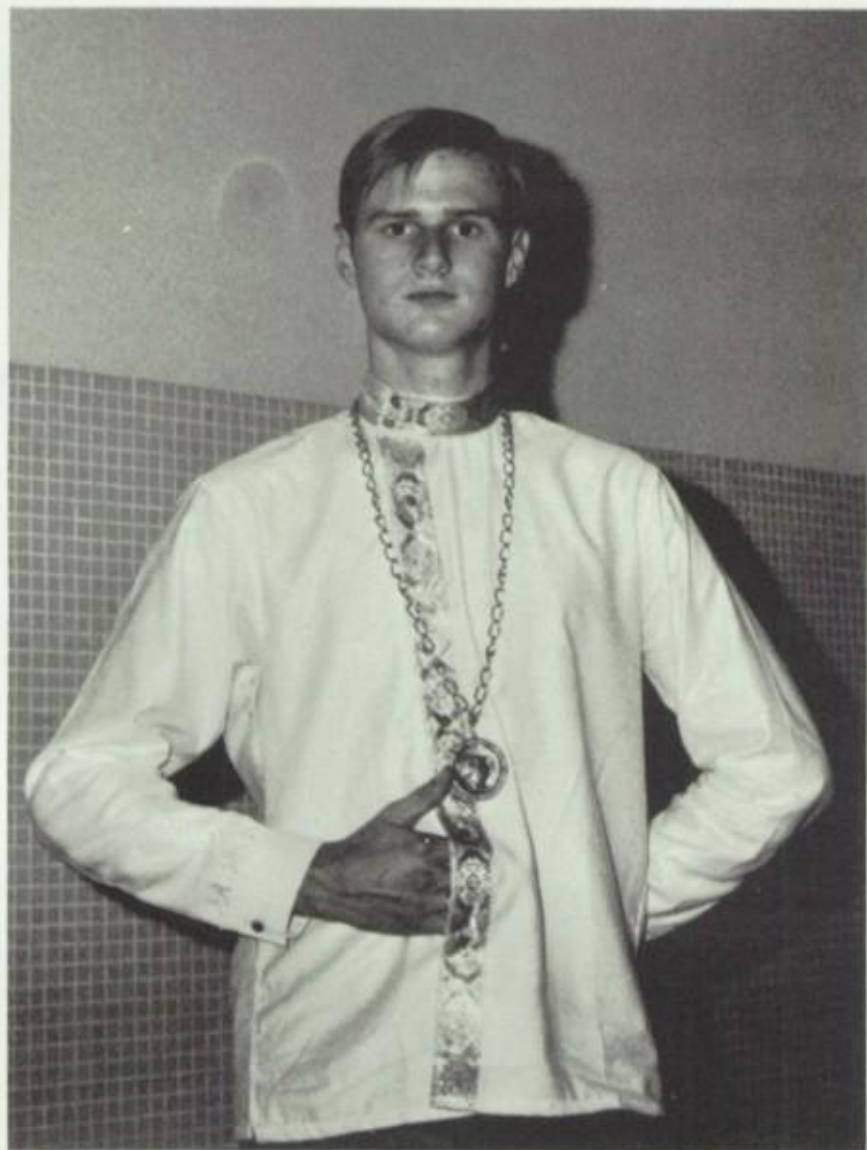

THE NEW BREED . . .

A new race of Apaches has arisen in memory of the old. Though differing from the ancients in matters of dress, the modern Apaches still wear beads and leather. They, too, are a proud people, proud of their traditions. Yet the new Apaches differ from the old ones by supporting friendship and peace, not hatred and war. They continue to be the uncommon kind, the different type of high school. They do not always win over odds, yet they can never be beaten. Backed by years of proven traditions, the new Apaches—the Spruce Apaches—can look to the future with pride in themselves and their school. This 1969 Tipi is a tribute to and history of the H. Grady Spruce Apaches. Read it with pride.

O u r P r i n c i p a l

Good-bye Apaches!

I will go to my grave indebted to you for the six most wonderful years that is was ever a man's privilege to enjoy. For your contribution, for your strength, and for your determination to make the "I Care" program a reality, I say, "thank you."

Remember this, if your experience and time spent at H. Grady Spruce was worth while, it will show in your influence and leadership in days to come. Remember your willingness to stand up and be counted, your hard work that couldn't have been achieved by any other way than trading that bed for a lantern and getting started early and staying late if needed

Your dedication to a cause that you thought and that you knew was worth while makes you rightfully the heirs to three-fourths of my heart that I leave with you.

The only guide to a man is his conscience; the only shield to his memory is the rectitude and sincerity of his actions. An example guarded only by neighborly respect and honorable obligations, is to every one a pattern for the future of Spruce.

Let Apaches, therefore, brace themselves to their duties, and so bear themselves that if the "Honor" at Spruce and its student body last for future boys and girls, Apaches will say: "This was their finest hour."

The Summer Ends . . .

After an exciting summer, everyone met at the school in the lunchroom for Annual Day on Saturday, August 26, 1968. It is a great day to get together with your friends.

School began with a "Welcome Back to School" Dance. It was a big success. The music was supplied by "The Sights and Sounds of the Night Before."

and School Begins.

APACHES ON THE WARPATH

Spruce comes alive during football season. We have several organizations in which the student body can join and be elected to.

Our cheering section begins with the cheerleaders. However, without the Tribe, the Mescaleros, the band, the Sundancers, the Braves, and the spectators, they would be an unnecessary organization.

Several of our organizations are "on the field" performers. Our most important group is the Apache football team.

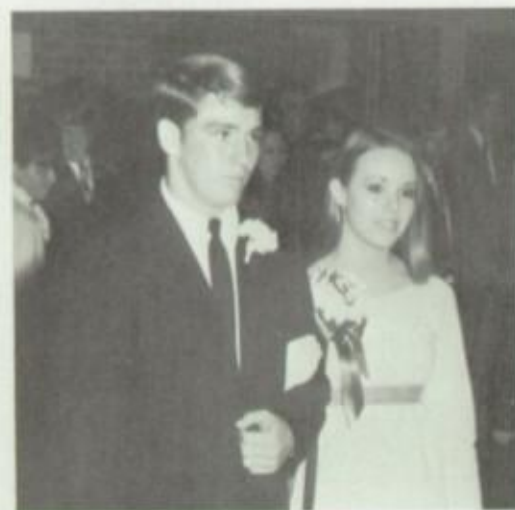

Our half-time shows are always filled with lots of excitement. The Sundancers along with the Apache band and the majorettes never fail to perform.

"Train for New York City boarding at track three."

"Me? Lonely?"

"I never felt more like celebrating."

"But here I am!"

January 17, 1969

"I may be desperate, but I'm not panic stricken."

Meg Wheeler feels stifled and unable to "express herself" in her small home town where she's just graduated from college. So Meg comes to New York intent on enlarging her horizon—by that she means finding a husband. She moves into a boarding house in Manhattan that's filled with attractive girls, most of them just as eager as Meg to find that ideal man.

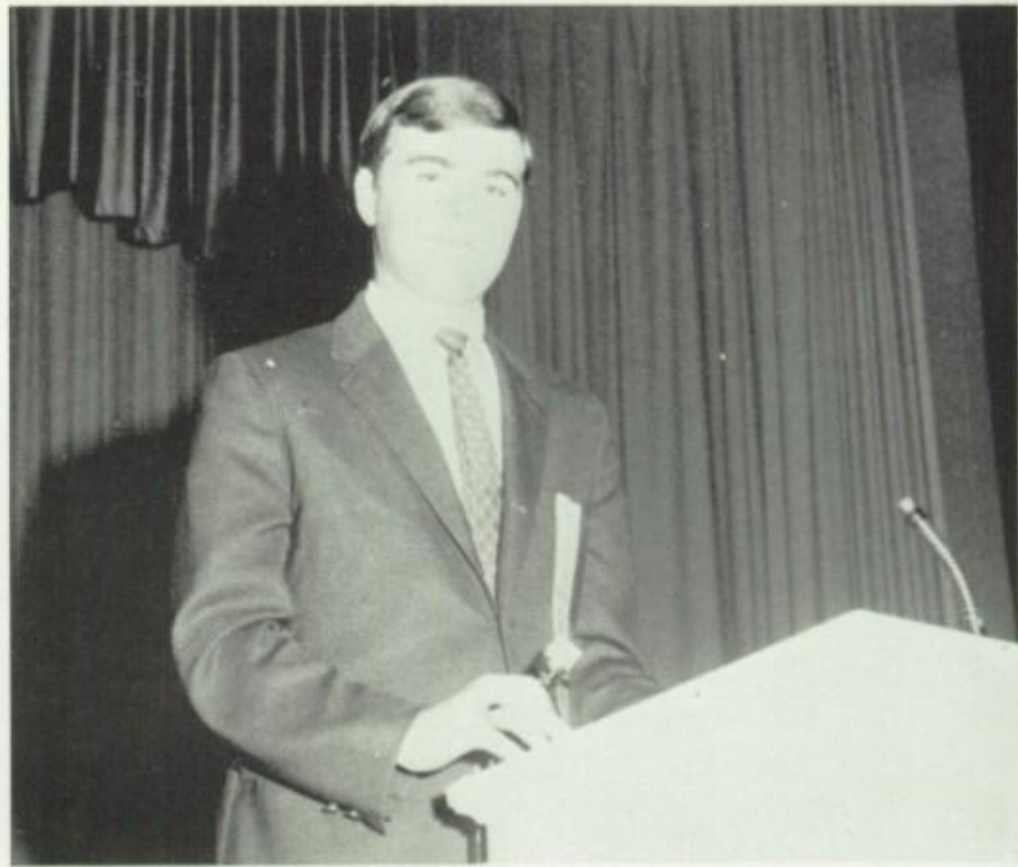

Meg has a unique ability to invent plausible statistics. When she tries them on the mathematically inclined Miles Doughton, head of the advertising firm, the system fails. Meg is fascinated by Miles' younger brother, Evan. Seeing how Meg feels, and a little fed up with his younger brother's attitude, Miles decides to give her a hand in snaring Evan.

The hilarious results build to a delightful climax in which we discover that in the course of "landing" Evan, Meg and Miles have fallen in love with each other!

FALL ASSEMBLIES

Friday is the day dedicated to assemblies. The Fall season of school got started with a great deal of spirit. We have, to begin with, our football assemblies. The most exciting one of these is color day when almost everyone wears red and blue. During the assembly, Mr. and Miss Red and Blue are announced. The winner of the Spirit Jug for the best color day bulletin board is also announced.

The Fall season is also highlighted with many other interesting assemblies. Our Junior Achievement assembly is an annual event. The Thanksgiving assembly was presented by the Mescalero and the ROTC. The Chapel Club assembly was made very interesting by Rev. Dan McBride who completely stole the audience.

Homerooms Are Essential

For 30 minutes every morning, Monday through Thursday, students go to their homerooms to talk, discuss, question, and debate issues which they feel are important to them as students and individuals.

The students are not forced by their homeroom teachers to discuss a certain topic. Instead, each homeroom is free to plan its own programs, which vary from school spirit and the school's philosophy to dating and teenage problems to world problems which definitely affect today's teens.

The program days are set for Monday and Wednesday. Tuesday and Thursday are set aside for counseling. Homerooms are made successful with the help of the guiding hand of a competent teacher who is willing to listen to and advise the students on the many problems they encounter each day.

Honorary Cadet Colonel and Battalion Sweetheart

Judy Lampkin

Judy Lampkin, sophomore, was crowned Battalion Sweetheart and Honorary Cadet Colonel February 28 at the Military Ball.

Escorted by Major John Eason, she was crowned by the Honorary Cadet Colonel of 1968-69, Becky Harrell. Judy was then presented with one dozen red roses by Lt. Colonel Jimmy Higginbotham who escorted her to the dance floor where they officially began the ball.

Judy was among four nominees for this position with the other candidates being Second Lieutenant Carolyn Loggins, sophomore, and Captains Barbara McVey and Terrie Taylor, both juniors.

Entertainment was provided by the 328th Army Band from Fort Walters, and the theme for the dance was "Candlelight and Roses."

ONE-ACT PLAY

AN OVERPRAISED SEASON

MARCH 25, 1969

"Youth is like spring, an overpraised season."

"We can go someplace and park, I guess."

"Maybe one of us ought to find a God with a sense of humor."

Numerous problems facing today's intelligent and sensitive adolescents are treated in the play, which, in episodic form, concerns two boys and a girl; a domineering, religiously fanatic mother; and a selfish, ego-centric father. A narrator expands the philosophy of the play.

School Ends . . .

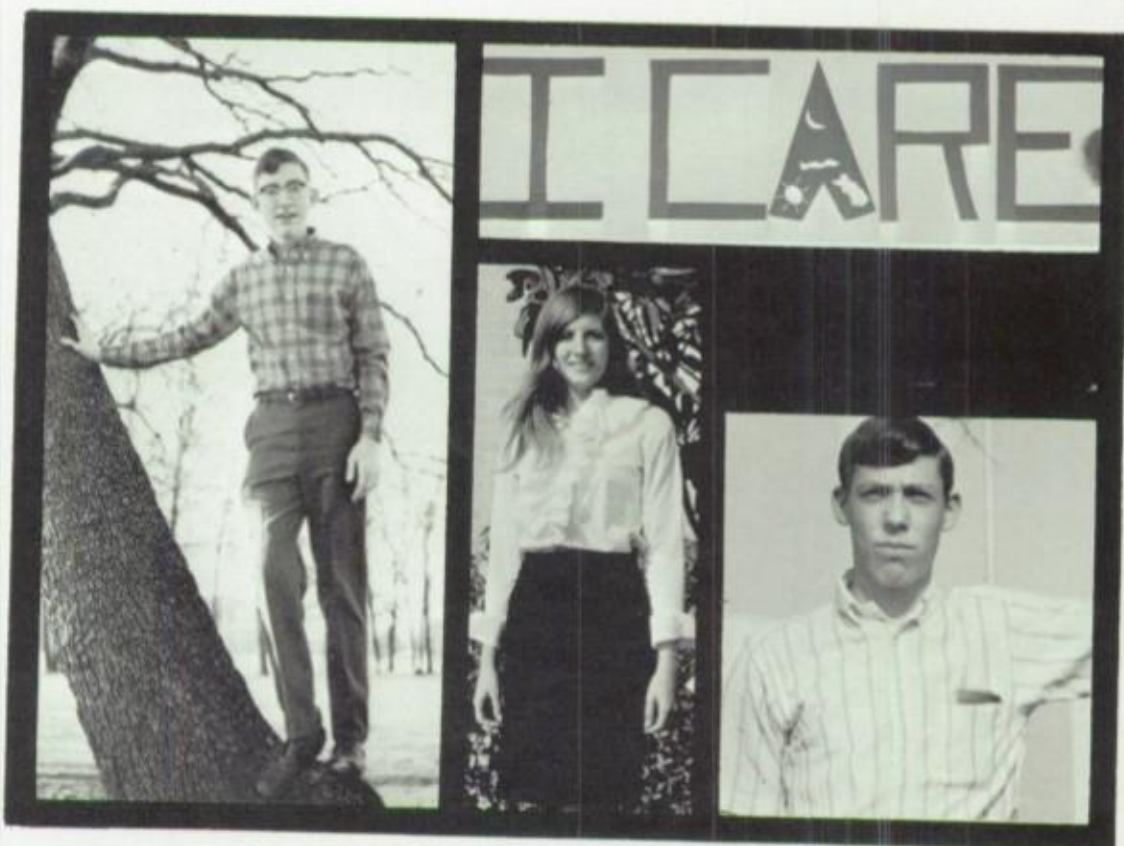

The 1968-69 school year has been one to remember. The 'I Care' Dance, sponsored by the sophomore class, made a good ending of all our school activities. The mosaic tile at the entrance of the building is proof of the lasting impression this school year has made. Graduation was a time when all seniors realized their last moments together. Now the campus of H. Grady Spruce is vacant. Summer has begun.

LATIN CLUB Junior Classical League

The Social Romanorum, or Latin Club, combines social activities with learning more about the world of the ancient Roman, an important factor in the development of the Latin language. The major social event of the year is the banquet, when all members wear costumes of the times and slaves provide the entertainment. The S. R. joins the other language clubs in caroling before Christmas and has a spring get-together for members and dates. Some programs are incorporated into meetings delving into some facet of Roman life, using slides or whatever materials are available.

The Vocational Office Education program is a training program for office work. Students are placed in offices where they will receive training in a variety of office duties.

The VOE teacher visits the students at work and discusses their progress with the employers. This helps the beginning workers solve many problems and avoid mistakes that are often made by new employees. Most of the students who are now in the program will remain with their present employers on a full-time basis.

Through VOE a student develops good work habits and attitudes as well as specific skills needed for office work. By graduation time the student is not a "beginner" but has a year's head start on her career in office work.
